Seven Tigers (TMSeven Tigers, TMwe, TMus, TMor TMour) is dedicated to protecting the privacy and empowering the rights of our clients and visitors regarding their personal data. This User Data Deletion Policy outlines the rights, procedures, and conditions under which users can request the deletion of personal information collected through access and use of our website located at <https://seventigers.in> (the TMWebsite) including its subdomains, features, analytics tools, or marketing platforms.

1. Right to Erasure (Data Deletion)

Every user has the right to request that Seven Tigers deletes their personal information from our active databases and records. Upon receiving a valid and verified request, we will permanently eliminate or anonymize your personal data, subject to specific regulatory and legal counter-obligations described below.

2. Scope of Information Subject to Deletion

A standard deletion request applies to all personal information provided by you or automatically collected during your interactions with Seven Tigers, including but not limited to:

- » Account and Profile Data: Names, registered email addresses, phone numbers, contact preferences, and communications metadata submitted through form inputs.
- » Marketing & Automation Logs: Subscription status, pixel tracking records, automated campaign profiles, and lead tracking parameters utilized across connected services.
- » Usage Analytics Data: Internet Protocol (IP) addresses, technical browser configurations, cookie logs, and general activity records tied to individual identity identifiers.

3. How to Submit a Data Deletion Request

To exercise your right to erasure, you may initiate a deletion request via direct transmission to our dedicated privacy management desk. Please provide your exact registered name and email address to help us identify your records accurately. Requests can be submitted through the following official channels:

By email: contact@seventigers.in

By phone: +91 955 799 0070

4. Identity Verification Process

To ensure security and prevent unauthorized erasure of accounts or malicious data exposure, Seven Tigers requires robust verification of the requestor's identity before acting on a deletion mandate. Upon receiving a deletion email or form request, we will issue a mandatory confirmation token to the registered email address or phone number on record. Failure to respond or verify ownership within fourteen (14) business days will result in administrative closure of the deletion request.

5. Retention Periods, Exclusions, and Exceptions

While Seven Tigers honors deletion mandates expeditiously, certain specific legal and operational frameworks compel us to retain partial sets of information without customer consent. Deletion requests will not extend to data required for the following scenarios:

- » Legal Obligations: Retaining transactional history, taxation invoices, and corporate accounting files to comply with applicable statutory framework laws.
- » Security & Anti-Fraud Protection: Maintaining network security logs to protect against fraudulent patterns, system vulnerabilities, or malicious cyber activities targeted at Seven Tigers infrastructure.
- » Anonymized Records: General analytical patterns, high-level business reports, or aggregated system-use statistics that have been completely scrubbed of any identifiable individual data signatures.

6. Timeline for Processing Requests

Once identity verification is successfully finalized, Seven Tigers commits to evaluating and executing data purging protocols within thirty (30) calendar days. Should the complexity of the internal technical pipeline or cross-server structures necessitate an extension, we will inform you of the additional period required (not exceeding an extra sixty days) alongside a formal justification.

7. Policy Modifications

We reserve the right to modify or adjust this User Data Deletion Policy periodically to reflect changes in regulatory data laws or technical software workflows. The updated iteration will take effect immediately upon being posted on our Website, marked by the revised “Last Updated” date.
